

CFALA Names Tatev Stepanyan October Volunteer of the Month

The CFA review program administered by CFALA and USC requires a lot of effort on the part of both the candidates and those who run the program. By helping administer the program and serving as the Mentor Program coordinator for Level 1 candidates, Tatev Stepanyan is one of the people who make the highly regarded program work.

Stepanyan, who has been named CFALA's volunteer of the month for October, is a Senior Associate in the Business Valuation practice at Deloitte Financial Advisory Services LLP. She specializes in valuation services of enterprise, intangible assets, common stock, options, and debt instruments for publicly traded and privately held entities involving merger and acquisition transactions, management strategic planning, financial reporting, tax compliance, and litigation support.

"Volunteering is a rewarding way to contribute to the growth of our local society as well as shape my personal brand" Stepanyan said.

"My involvement especially with the Mentor Program is very fulfilling as it helps the new candidates quickly integrate within the CFA program, improves my leadership skills, and also serves as a great networking platform for everyone involved."

Stepanyan, who also maintains CFALA's Facebook page, obtained her Bachelors Degrees in Finance and Accounting from USC. She has passed all three levels of the CFA Program and will be eligible for the CFA charter upon completion of the required work experience.
