

Frank F. Spindler, CFA
Volunteer of the Month – December 2010

One of CFALA's primary objectives is to be a premier source for professional resources and career development. As Chair of the Career Development Committee, Frank F. Spindler, CFA, plays a key role in advancing that goal. Frank's countless contributions to the Career Development Committee have earned him the Volunteer of the Month Award for the month of December.

Since joining CFALA, two years ago, Frank has been actively working with the Career Development Committee to coordinate many successful events including an annual Career Expo, a series of happy hour chats across the Los Angeles area, and other networking opportunities offered to all CFALA members.

"We focus on two different groups of people. First, we focus on individuals who are just starting their professional careers and are either working on receiving their CFA designation or have just received it. Second, we target mid-level members who have been in the industry between five and 10 years and are interested in new career opportunities," Frank explained.

"For those individuals that are just beginning their professional careers, we offer tips on polishing their resume and interview skills, while others may need guidance to develop their networking and communications skills. Our main goal is to make our CFALA members aware of the opportunities that are out there."

Frank Spindler is a portfolio analyst at Payden & Rygel, in the Core Fixed Income Group. He manages the firm's attribution process, structures portfolios and monitors portfolio analytics. Frank Spindler earned his B.S. in Business Finance from California State University Northridge.
